Super Hair Removal, it's a technology designed for painless and less aggressive hair removal for the skin, makes other laser removal technologies obsolete. The system combines laser technology and the benefits of pulsating light system to achieve the same results as other systems, but without pain.

Radio frequency is one of the latest advances in medicine. It's one of the few no-invasive and painless procedures designed to improve the laxity of both facial and body skin. In biweekly or monthly sessions of short duration, the patient can return immediately to their social or work activity without setbacks.

Stainless Steel frame an modular design.

For the removal of tattoos, a Q-Switched laser is used, which is currently the best and safest technology for the realization of the procedure. Applying laser beats on the upper layers of the skin, the tattoo pigments heat up and fragment into smaller particles, allowing the normal process of the body to eliminate them naturally.
