Microfocalized ultrasound technology is able to penetrate the superficial layers of the skin, acting directly in the deep areas where the collagen is located. This innovative system is able to improve the skin from inside out, leaving the outer part of the skin intact. The result is gradual, over the months and naturally our skin renews its collagen, replacing it with a new and more elastic one.

During the treatment a monitoring is made through a screen where the image of the treated area is reflected, its possible to distinguish between bone, nerve, etc., making the technique very safe.
